

g n i m o c e m o h

Face Painting. Freshman Alexa Horn shows off her painted face with the Marian emblem. Senior Lauren James represents an Avatar character for the day. Sophomore Kaitlin Marcus displays her own colorful creation. Since students had to dress in full uniform, they were allowed to paint their faces for the half day on Thursday, Oct. 14.

90's Day. Sophomores Sydney Pelster, Jess McCarthy, Alexa Gross and Sydney Rhoades start off the Gnimocemoh week by sporting their 90's clothes on Monday, Oct. 11. "I liked 90's day because it was really fun to dress up in the clothes that our parents were wearing. I got the clothes from my dad's closet," Rhoades said. Gnimocemoh is homecoming spelled backwards, which is Marian's fall tradition.

Students vs. Staff. Junior Erin Stewart attempts to get the ball in play. Seniors DaSean Anderson, Leah Hansen, Alex Eilers, freshman Bailey Kelly and Chemistry teacher Mr. Jeff Hacker watch as Stewart uses some of her soccer skills in the students versus staff volleyball game. This year the four student teams were randomly chosen from all grade levels to play together. Students came out victorious at the last second when the senior Class Officer scorekeepers decided to add on spirit points for the students.

Blue And White. Juniors Ava Ambrose, Stacy Thiel and Carolyn Zuegner show their school spirit by wearing blue and white tops while cheering on the students at the Gnimocemoh volleyball game. On Tuesday, Oct. 12, girls had to wear skirts with their spirit gear. The Crusader Cheerleaders performed at half time as well as throughout the game.

Things That Come In Pairs. Freshmen Rachel Wortmann and Drew Scherer pose as the pair Princess and the Frog. Senior Class Officers came up with each day's theme for the week. Monday and Wednesday were the only days that students could fully dress up for the Gnimocemoh week.

Photos by Carla Gibbs
Alexa Baumer
Sammy Salerno